

Training for young investigators from countries with limited resources

The Organizing Committee of the 8th IBRO World Congress of Neuroscience, which will be held in Florence, Italy, July 14-19, 2011, launches a Training Program for selected young investigators from countries with limited resources.

The Program will arrange, on the occasion of the 8th IBRO World Congress of Neuroscience, one-month stays in European laboratories, which will allow guest young investigators to meet senior and junior scientists and get familiar with the laboratory's environment, facilities and techniques in different fields of brain research, to favour future exchanges and networking. Lodging expenses and travel fare to or from Florence (i.e., before or after the IBRO Congress) will be covered by the Young Investigator Visiting Program.

For the call for applications and application forms, visit the Congress website www.ibro2011.org and the IBRO website www.ibro.info.

For expression of interest and further information please contact the Chair of the Young Investigator Visiting Program Committee of the 8th IBRO World Congress, Micaela Morelli, e-mail: morelli@unica.it
